Marx's Concept of Man by Erich Fromm 1961

Marx's aim was that of the spiritual emancipation of man, of his liberation from the chains of economic determination, of restituting him in his human wholeness, of enabling him to find unity and harmony with his fellow man and with nature. Marx's philosophy was, in secular, nontheistic language, a new and radical step forward in the tradition of prophetic Messianism; it was aimed at the full realization of individualism, the very aim which has guided Print book : English View all editions and formats. Summary: "Marx's Concept of Man is Fromm's view of Marx. It stresses his humanist philosophy and challenges both Soviet distortion and Western ignorance of Marx's early thought. The discovery of Marx's Economic and Philosophical Manuscripts (which is included in this edition), together with Fromm's interpretation, established a new approach to Marx as a humanist and moralist, and served as a formative influence on the New.
